

About the Conference

The Environmental Council 2000 Workshop focuses upon the issue of urban sustainability. The workshop will explore such questions as: How can the urban environment be sustained and improved in the face of the traditional focus of the environmental movement on non-urban spaces? Could the environmentally responsible redevelopment of urban areas help combat suburban and exurban sprawl? And what challenges do efforts to reinvent the clean-up process for urban brownfields pose for fundamental democratic values? The workshop is open to all, and should be of interest to a wide range of faculty, students, policy makers and concerned citizens.
